Bucharest, June 24, 2026

The Bucharest University of Economic Studies maintains its position in the top 201–300 universities worldwide in the Times Higher Education Sustainability Impact Rankings 2026

The Bucharest University of Economic Studies (ASE) maintains its position in the 201–300 range worldwide in the Times Higher Education Sustainability Impact Rankings 2026, released in June 2026, confirming its position among universities with significant impact in the field of sustainable development and contribution to society.

In this year's edition, which assessed 1,603 universities worldwide against the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, ASE achieved an overall score of 78.7 points out of 100. The university's results include:

- ◆ ODD 5 Gender equality: ranked 23rd out of 1,095 institutions;
- ◆ ODD 8 Decent work and economic growth: ranked 49th out of 1,003 institutions;
- ◆ ODD 1 No poverty: ranked 201–300th;
- ◆ ODD 4 Quality education: ranked 301–400th;
- ◆ ODD 10 Reduced inequalities: ranked 301–400th;
- ◆ ODD 17 Partnerships for the Goals: ranked 601–800th .

The above scores reflect ASE's constant contribution to the promotion of quality education, social inclusion, equal opportunities and sustainable economic development, as well as the University's commitment to supporting the values of sustainable development and to training generations of professionals capable of contributing to the economic and social progress of society.
